The lok sabha is composed of representatives of people chosen by direct election on the basis of universal adult suffrage . The constitution of india allows for maximum of 550 members in the house with 530 members representing the states and 20 representing union territories.

Advantages Of Rajya Sabha

 - *it acts as a check on hasty legisla^{ti}o.
 - *it gives representation to indeendent talented persons.
 - *many bills are frist introduction in the Rajya sabha and LokSabha
- 5.it plays a major role when Lok Sabha is dissolved

DISADVANTAGES:

There is no disadvantages with the loksabha. There are some problems like disruption of the proceedings by conress members never participate in the debates and proceedings.

These members should be admonished to be active in loksabha. The rules are too rigid on facts and figures. Many members are afraid to raise issues or make statements due to fear of mistakes in facts

That system should go and members should be allowed to speak from their heart. Whip and party guidelines also stop the expressions of some members .Many improvements are needed there.

The most important one is about the No Confidence motion. The PM is most powerful person in indian. But he is liable to loose confidence every six months. He should be elected by the members of Loksabha for a full term of five years .

The MPs need not be Mnisters on regular basis. Prfessionals should be made ministers and should be approved by the loksabha as done in USA and other countries.

The proceedings of Loksabha should be regular and for longer period. Then the Loksabha may fulfill its formation in the country.

6. CONCLUSION:

The lok sabha is more powerful than Rajya Sabha in almost all matters. Even in those matters in which the Constutution has placed both houses n an equal footing, the lok sabha has more influence due to its greater numerical strength.

The top executive of the state is not directly chosen by the people in the parlimentary system, but he is usually the leader f the majority party in parliment. He appoints his own

Cabinet, Which, again, should be made up of people who are not members of parliament.

It can be concluded that "parliament" is the "apex body of india" in terms of making legislation for the indian citizens. the parliament is made up of the president and the two houses as "Rajya Sabha" and "Lok Sabha".
